

Business Travel Policy

Purpose

This policy sets out meal, accommodation and flight class entitlements for staff travelling on Harbourline Freight Systems business, whether domestic or international.

Meal allowances

Travelling staff receive a daily meal allowance of $85 for domestic travel and $120 for international travel, intended to cover breakfast, lunch and dinner while away from their home office. The allowance is paid regardless of actual spend and does not require individual meal receipts, though the overall trip must still be supported by an approved travel itinerary.

Travel type	Daily meal allowance
Domestic	$85
International	$120

Accommodation

Hotel spend is capped by location to reflect local market rates. In Sydney and Melbourne, the nightly cap is $280. Everywhere else within Australia and New Zealand, the nightly cap is $220. Staff booking above these caps need prior approval from their manager, for example where no suitable room is available below the cap for a particular date.

Location	Nightly cap
Sydney or Melbourne	$280
Elsewhere domestic	$220

Flights

Economy class is the standard for all business travel. Business class is permitted only for flights with a scheduled duration over 4 hours, and only for members of the Executive Leadership Team. All other staff travel economy regardless of flight length, though exit-row or extra-legroom seating may be booked at the traveller's discretion within the standard fare.

Booking and approval

All travel must be booked through the Finance Portal's travel booking tool and approved by the traveller's manager before tickets are purchased.

Personal travel combined with a business trip is permitted, but any additional cost, including changed flight dates, is borne by the employee.
