

Remote and Flexible Work Policy

Purpose

This policy sets expectations for hybrid and remote work at Harbourline Freight Systems, including core collaboration hours and support for staff who work from home.

Hybrid working

Employees may work remotely for up to 3 days per week, with the remaining days spent in their home office (Melbourne, Sydney, Perth or Auckland). Teams coordinate their in-office days together so that collaborative work, planning sessions and onboarding can happen face to face.

Core hours

Regardless of where an employee is working, everyone is expected to be available during core hours of 10:00 to 15:00 AEST. Meetings that involve staff across multiple offices should be scheduled inside this window wherever possible. Outside core hours, employees may arrange their start and finish times with their manager.

Arrangement	Approval required
Hybrid, up to 3 days remote per week	Manager
Fully remote	Executive Leadership Team

Fully remote arrangements

Employees who wish to work remotely on a fully remote basis, rather than the standard hybrid pattern, must obtain approval from the Executive Leadership Team. Requests are considered on a case-by-case basis and take into account role requirements, team structure and time zone overlap with core hours.

Home office allowance

Employees working under a hybrid or fully remote arrangement can claim a home office allowance of $650 to set up or improve their home workspace. This allowance can be claimed once every 24 months per employee, and receipts must be submitted through the People Portal.
